

Discussion of CBS's Daytime Drama As The World Turns

Message Board > General ATWT Discussions

Refresh Permalink Graham Perrin

change, too little too late? Thoughts on story lines.

Threaded

17 messages Options

SU21Male - Writing style change, too little too late?
Thoughts on story lines.

Reply More

JP has dropped the contained episode approach. The sequences with Casey and Ali for months, and I can't believe I am admitting this but I am actually rooting for them. The slow build up in this relationship is working. Also, they are writing the relationship split over at least a couple weeks, so again more drawn out. Ok, I also have to say I'm playing mind games on Paul. If they have to continue with this crappy story line at a different tactic this time.

Change in story telling, I think the short term bad stories have destroyed my positive feelings toward ATWT. At this point the only story lines I care about at all is Luke and Noah and anything with Katie/Brad/Vienna/Henry. Very few of the actors in the cast are used, and we show hard to watch when you see only a few of the cast members around. The only ones are when Luke and Noah are featured. All the other stories have become too boring to watch.

Wow! You sure have cut to the chase, Chris. So you now feel there's something in Ali's and Casey's relationship. ...

Dave, No harm no foul, lol. My change in attitude has come a lot from the fact they are taking their time with the...

n8 BTW, Chris, I think you mean Casey rather than Cassie. Cassie is a character on GL. LOL The Average...

Male Always a grammar Queen!! LOL

Fan8 Yup, that's me: a Grammar Queen! You've got my number! LOL

Coop1 And I am the Spelling Queen!! LOL

SnyderFan8 Wow! What a pair we make!! LOL A Good Credit Score is 700 or Above. See yours in just 2 easy...

LuvCoop1 Oh yeah, a good education pair!! LOL I think Chris is mad at me ... he hasn't spoken to me in several days

7 SnyderFan8 Jay, I've noticed that on a lot of my e-mails to friends and relatives--apart from the Nabble threads. Don't know why...

27 LuvCoop1 Now, on this post, it didn't do it ... but on your previous post it did ... is there anything you are doing...

pr 27 SnyderFan8 If I reply directly from AOL where the message indicator comes up, I think that's where the ad comes from. When I...

05:42am LuvCoop1 Yes, the ad appears at the bottom ... sounds to me like you are not following this message routine: 1. Click on...

06:15am SnyderFan8 Sorry, Jay, but I can't follow the directions you sent. A better solution for me is when I get a message that someone...

Apr 29, 2009; 11:01am LuvCoop1 Reply More

SnyderFan8 wrote:

Sorry, Jay, but I can't follow the directions you sent. A better solution for me is when I get a message that someone has responded to a post I made, is for me to log onto the Nabble site and make a response at that point.

The reason I was responding from the AOL site is that it's quicker that way, instead of logging on to Nabble. In the future I'll log onto Nabble and respond from there.

I feel bad that you had to type all those directions for me, and I had to ... [show rest of quote]

Believe it or not, I was trying to make things simpler for you and others. To actually do it, it is best to start with a e-mail you get notifying you of a response on the MB. I would print them out, so you can follow along as you do it one step at a time. Once, you have done it several times, it will seem easier. You could print out the e-mail you got from Nabble with my instructions. I am sorry I am unable to sit by you and point out each step and answer your questions as you go along. It is harder to try to understand someone's written instructions, without the benefit of asking questions immediately.

SAVE ATWT and Guiding Light!!

n8 I've stated something similar on another thread a few days ago about Ali. It's frustrating when she starts in this I...

Male As much as we would all like to see these two go their separate ways, I think the writers are using this story of...

ews